

A friend of mine told me about KLOVE in 2003. I was living in Colorado at the time. In the late August 2004, I moved to Oklahoma and KLOVE is still my primary radio channel. I don't tend to listen to the radio outside my driving time, and it is refreshing and beneficial to listen to encouraging music that inspires a person to act as a Christian, especially when you're driving. There are too many people on the road who quite frankly don't know how to drive, but by having KLOVE playing, it helps restrain any road rage impulses I would normally have against the clueless drivers I have the misfortune of encountering. Imagine how it's having the same effect on other drivers out there, especially those with tempers! That's fewer incidents of violence in our community --what a benefit to our society!

Right now, with KLOVE providing national services, I can travel by car to pretty much anywhere in the continental US (hubby's family is in CO, so we're gonna have LOTS of road trips there & back each year) and still feel connected to my family & loved ones in other states. Displacing KLOVE with LPFM broadcasts would make it harder to maintain our KLOVE life line.

Please do NOT replace KLOVE with LPFM broadcasters. KLOVE's listeners continue to pledge their financial & moral support to this worthwhile endeavor. Please don't take this resource from us.
